*When I die
Write but one word on my stone:
Write "Teacher"..
Never mind a date or name,
For only in this way would I be known.
Without a title,
Timeless,
Without fame.
Perhaps some
Who wander through the grounds
Where I lie sleeping,
As they pass through
May read the brief tributes above the mounds,
And note the word,
They speak of some they knew.*

*"Now my first teacher Taught me how to love,"
And "I remember how one teacher smiled."
"Another teacher took my thoughts above
The world I knew,
(A big-eyed clumsy child)."
And, as these thoughts are stirred, above my head,
I shall be teaching...though mortals call me dead.*
