*When I die
Write but one word on my stone:
Write "Teacher" ...
Never mind a date or name,
For only in this way would I be known.
Without a title,
Timeless,
Without fame.
Perhaps some
Who wander through the grounds
Where I lie sleeping,
As they pass through*

*May read the brief tributes above the mounds,
And note the word,
They speak of some they knew.
"Now my first teacher Taught me how to love,"
And "I remember how one teacher smiled."
"Another teacher took my thoughts above
The world I knew,
(A big-eyed clumsy child)."
And, as these thoughts are stirred, above
my head,
I shall be teaching...though mortals call me dead.*
